CHOICE OF HOSPITAL SITE AGAIN DELAYED

Supervisors Refer Measure for Report of Realty Board; Well
Planned Campaign to Defer
Immediate Action Indicated

WELFARE COMMISSION WORKS YEAR IN VAIN

Members of Many Civic Societies Speak in Meeting; Report
Will Be Placed on File on or Before the Coming Thursday

After over one year of work by the Public Welfare Commission headed by Mrs. Duncan McDuffie and a group of associates to whom the subject was referred, the Board of Supervisors this afternoon, taking the subject of the new county hospital site into the committee of the whole, called upon the realty board of the city for a report covering the advantages and disadvantages of the California Baptist College site as proposed by the commission. This action followed a long debate, participated in by a number of persons and members of the board, occupying three hours of the time of the county body, and clearly indicating that there is a well-planned campaign for delay.

As soon as the subject was opened for discussion at a little after ten o'clock, an attack was made by a group of real estate agents upon the price of $52,250. Robert Jackson, Fred E. Reed and others versed with the commission all spoke at length in defense of the report of the body. Emphasis was given by each that the commission was not concerned with price or method of purchase but with the present price and the future of the county. Marquand defended the Baptist College site from attack by Supervisor Kelley, who pleaded the cost of grading and preparing the site for building.

L. B. Magoon of Elmhurst addressed the board and urged that the matter be submitted to the voters. He was supported in this position by Chairman Murphy, who declared himself in favor of a public expression of opinion at the polls. A. Hunse, one-time candidate for city commissioner, made an appeal for the program and insisted that the present county infirmary site be used for new construction.

PRESENT SITE.

A site opposite Mosswood Park was presented by Fred Reed, who made a lengthy argument in favor of beautifying the site by the construction of the civic development of the east bay communities to the grandeur of ancient Athens. Some good natural humor was indulged in by the speaker and auditors by Reed's point, to which he held, was that the California college site was not a desirable purchase at the price offered. He had a list of figures and a report from the realty board as a supplemental report from the Public Welfare Commission. This was the suggestion to be followed by the committee of the whole.

This board is composed of Frank K. Mott, F. H. Masters, Wickham Havens, W. W. White, Fred E. Reed, George W. Anstine, C. P. Murdock, F. Bruce Milder, Fred Wood and C. M. Wood. Masters is the chairman of the appraisal committee.

When the board passed its vote to call for further consideration Thursday, when the commission, realty board and supervisors will meet, Supervisor Heyer declared himself ready to vote on the matter Monday next. It is predicted that the

Fifty Killed When Trains in Mexico Crash Heavy Freight Runs Into Crowded Passenger

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 23.—Fifty persons were killed and a great number injured in a rear-end collision of a freight and passenger train at Ramos Arispe, Mexico, on last Friday, according to news reaching the border today. Ramos Arispe is between Saltillo and Laredo, Coahuila.

A freight train, heavily loaded with coal, according to the story received here, crashed into a slowly moving passenger train.

The dead were taken to Saltillo and buried. It is not believed any Americans were injured.

Supreme Court Refuses Review Of Fuel Case

Indicted Coal Magnates Must Go to Prison for Conspiring
Against Government.

The United States Supreme Court today refused to review indictments brought against James B. Smith of Oakland, vice-president of the Western Fuel Company, Fred C. Mills, superintendent, and Edward H. Mayer, for conspiracy to defraud the government by manipulating scales used for weighing dutiable coal. Unless something unprecedented in law practice can be brought before the court the officials must go to prison. The application for a writ, say the attorneys, was the last chance.

The action by the Supreme Court follows that of the Court of Appeals last May denying a rehearing of the case. The higher court upholds this decision. Smith has been sentenced to eighteen months in San Quentin and fined $5000. Mills was given eighteen months and Mayer one year. The defendants some time ago were denied a new trial and a petition for a rehearing was asked. Sydney V. Smith appealed as a friend of the court in behalf of James B. Smith, declaring him guiltless.

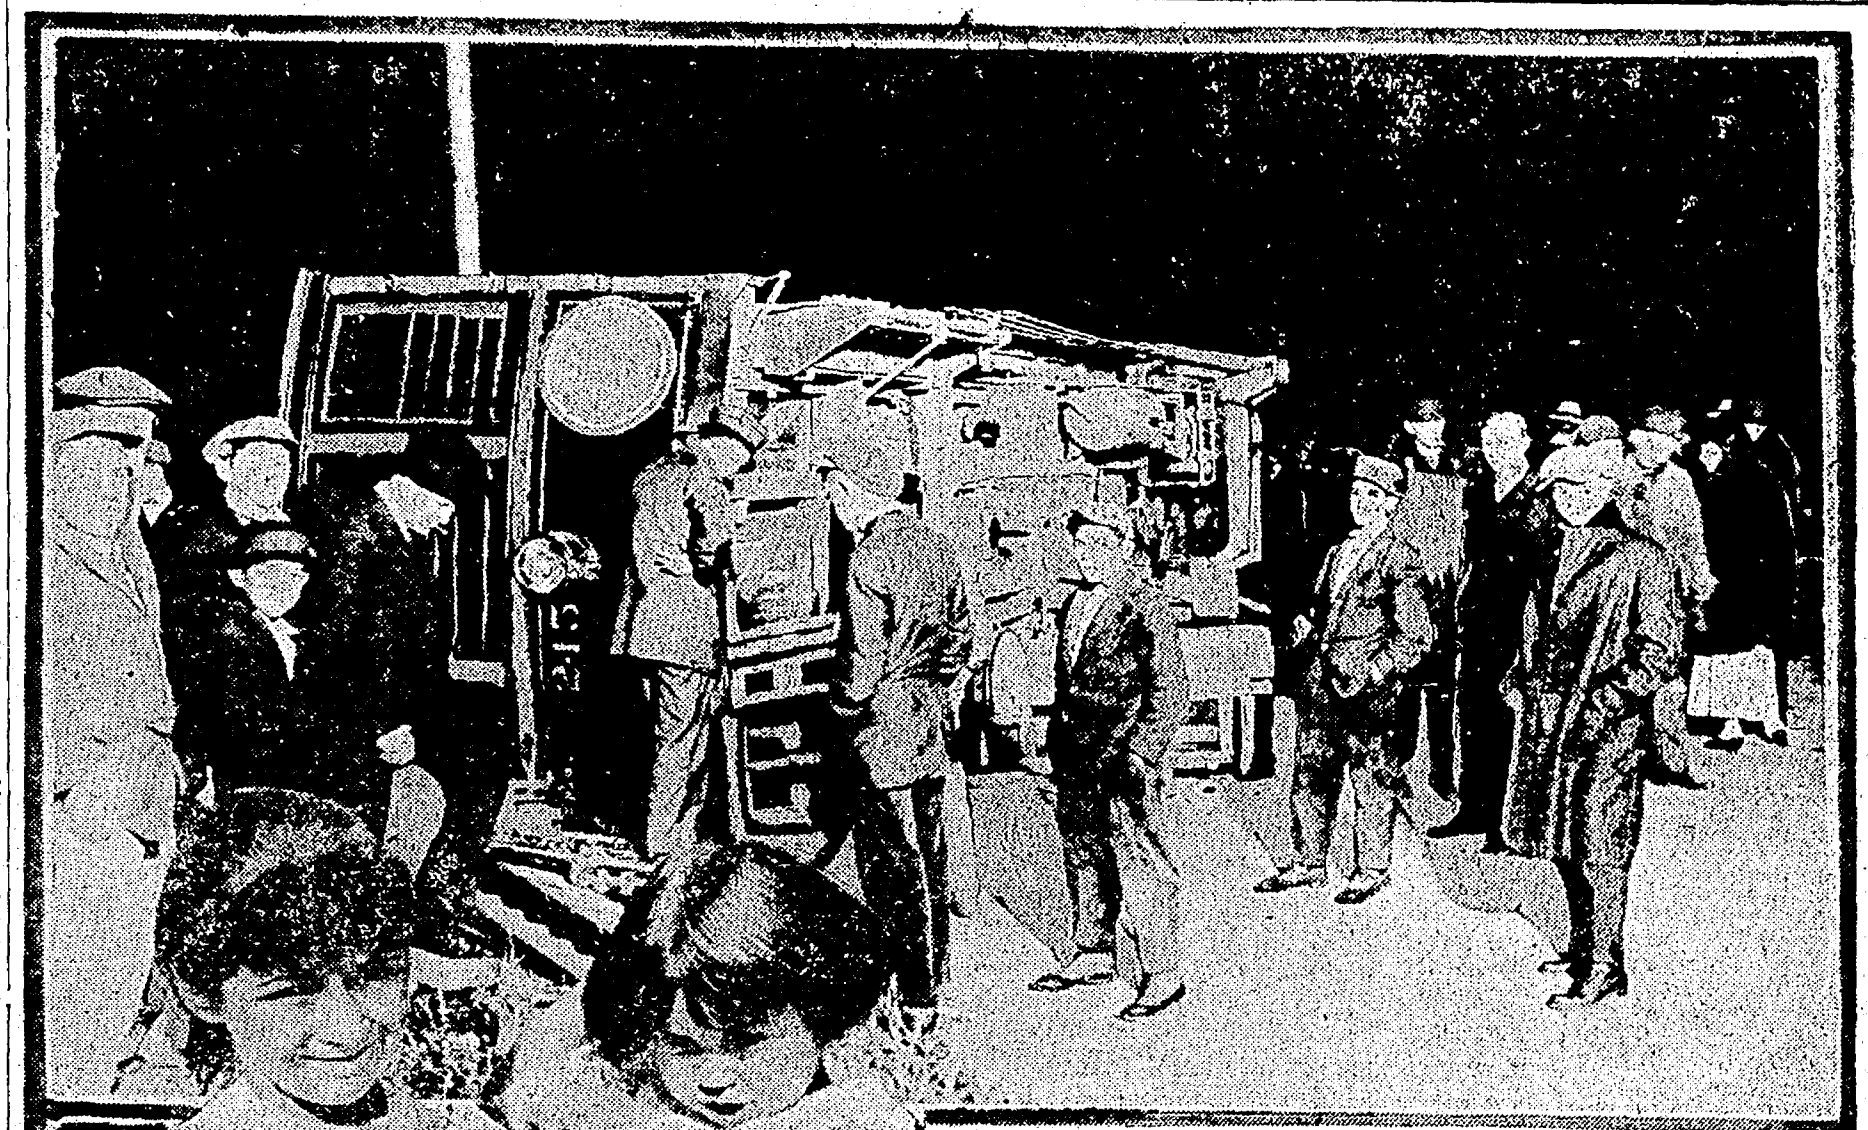

INTERVENTION ONLY HOPE. The intervention of the president of the United States is all that can save the convicted Western Fuel Company officials from serving sentences imposed upon them. On February 27, 1913, the grand jury indicted eight of the officers and directors of the Western Fuel Company. The trials were not taken up promptly and in June of that year a nation-wide sensation was caused when United States District Attorney John L. McNab sent his resignation by telegram to the department of justice, declaring to his superior, the attorney-general, that influence was being brought to bear at Washington to interfere and tie his hands in the case. He charged the persons friendly to the accused officials and to Maury I. Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti, son of the commissioner-general of immigration, had sought to impede the progress of justice in both those cases. The two named young men were charged with violating the Mann white slave act.

Following McNab's resignation, Attorneys Mutt I. Sullivan and Theodore Roche were appointed special prosecutors in both cases and subsequently appeared and obtained convictions. The Diggs-Caminetti cases will be before the supreme court at the next hearing.

The Western Fuel officials indicted, besides the three whose convictions were today sustained, were John L. Howard, president; Joseph L. Schmidt, secretary; Robert Bruce and Sydney Smith, directors, and Edward J. Smith, director. Edward J. Smith was in progress at his home in Oakland. The true bills against Bruce and Smith were dismissed by the court and Schmidt and Edward J. Smith were acquitted. The trials ended on October 3, 1913, and lasted for three months. The government introduced evidence, claiming that coal was short-weighted and that the government was defrauded in connection with reshipments in American bottoms.

The point raised was that when coal arrived it was underweighed and duty paid the government on short weight. When it was reshipped in American bottoms it was weighed and was overweighed and as the government was forced to return the duty on such reshipments, it was defrauded by reason of the juggling of the weights. The total amount of money alleged to have been cleaned up approximated $1,000,000.

STREET CAR IN WILD DASH; 30 ARE INJURED

STREET CAR WHICH TURNED OVER ON ITS SIDE AFTER WILD RIDE DOWN HILL AND TWO CHILDREN OF MRS. HATTIE SCHWARTZ, WHO WERE AMONG ITS THIRTY PASSENGERS.

With all but one of the thirty victims of last night's accident at East Sixteenth street and Fourteenth avenue, where an eastbound car tipped over on the curve after its air-brakes had been rendered useless through a collision with an automobile, recovering traction officials today started an investigation into the exact circumstances surrounding the occurrence which jeopardized the lives of more than fifty persons.

According to eye-witnesses of the accident and the crew of the car, a machine driven by Carl Fogh, 3334 West Sixteenth street, and owned by R. H. Barrett, 339 Lower Terrace, San Francisco, which crashed head-on into the side of the street car at Thirteenth avenue, broke the air-pipe that controlled the brakes, and left the cargo of human freight to career madly down a steep grade on a helpless vehicle.

Assistant Superintendent John S. Mills of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railway Company, who has charge of the investigation, said today that the overturned car was found with the hand-brakes wedged on, where they had been twisted tightly by Motorman A. H. Stewart when he realized that his air-brake control was useless. Mills also declared that the front trucks of the car held the rails after the car itself had been wrenched loose and hurled on its side, and continued for a block under the impetus of shock to the second hump of the S-curve, making one of the strangest accidents in the history of the traction company.

WOMAN BADLY HURT

Mrs. Myron Tozer, 5443 Wadean place, who was removed to Merritt hospital with an hour after the accident last night, is the most seriously injured. At that time her injuries were diagnosed as a possible fracture of the skull, internal injuries and a badly wrenched back and spine. She is alleged to have been in the car when he realized that his air-brake control was useless. Mills also declared that the front trucks of the car held the rails after the car itself had been wrenched loose and hurled on its side, and continued for a block under the impetus of shock to the second hump of the S-curve, making one of the strangest accidents in the history of the traction company.

With the exception of Mrs. Myron Tozer, 5443 Wadean place, Mrs. Hattie Schwartz, 1733 East Sixteenth street, and Mrs. Joseph Kovida, 4616 Melrose avenue, all of whom are at the Merritt hospital, variously injured, most of the passengers on the overturned car escaped with minor bruises and cuts from flying glass. Mrs. Tozer, who is suffering from internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull, may die.

RUMANIA'S GREATEST SEA PORT WAR PRIZE

Von Mackensen's Army Strikes
Most Decisive Blow That the Central Powers Have Been
Aided by for Many Months

CERNAVODA ALSO IN DANGER OF CAPTURE

Seriousness of the Situation Is Emphasized by Appeals for Help Made to Petrograd by the Russian Army Leaders

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—Constanza, Rumania's greatest seaport, has fallen before Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army, it was officially announced this afternoon. Von Mackensen's left wing is now approaching Cernavoda, the war office announced. Troops of the central powers have crossed the railway line running between Constanza and the river Danube at a point to the east of Murfatlar, the official announcement says. The fortress of Constanza was taken by German and Bulgarian troops.

On the left wing of Field Marshal von Mackensen's army, the state-ment adds, the Germans and their allies are approaching the Danube town of Tchernavoda.

Capture of the city is the greatest strategic achievement for the central powers since Rumania entered the war eight weeks ago. The victory is hailed by German military men as of more importance than all the gains made by the allies since the Somme offensive.

DISASTROUS ROUT

Official despatches from the German and Bulgarian war office indicate that the Russo-Rumanian have suffered a disastrous rout.

Smashing northward along the Black sea coast, Von Mackensen's army occupied first the Rumanian port of Tuzla and then swept onward through strongly fortified Rumanian lines of defense, marching twelve miles to Constanza in little more than two days. The rapidity of the Teutonic advance is accepted as an indication that the Russians and Rumanians have been completely demoralized and made an extremely disordered retreat.

An official statement from Sofia earlier in the day, reporting the capture of the strategic city of Tuzla, said that the Russian army had been driven back to the ruins of the old Trajan wall, and had occupied Constanza itself.

VICTORY EXPECTED

No surprise was manifested here when it was announced that Von Mackensen had won a large quantity of the ruins of the old Trajan wall, and had occupied Constanza itself.

Since Rumania entered the war Russian transports have been bringing supplies to the aid of the Rumanian large bodies of Russian troops have arrived in Rumania through the port of Constanza, whose capture by the central powers effectively puts an end to the transportation of reinforcements by the Black sea.

The thirty-five-mile Constanza-Cernavoda railway, leading across the Danube, is the carrier over which Rumania has received a large quantity of her supplies. The Teutonic right wing is now astride that railway at Constanza, while Von Mackensen's center and left wing are swinging forward to capture the strategic city of Tuzla. Von Mackensen is aiming principally at Cernavoda and the great bridge over the Danube.

SERIOUS SITUATION

For the first time since the Germans began their campaign to crush Rumania an appeal for help has come from Bucharest. The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily News, returning from the Rumanian capital, telegraphed that he was asked by a high Russian personage to emphasize the seriousness of the situation.

Ferdinand himself sent a similar plea following the Rumanian defeat in Transylvania.

Petrograd despatches today revealed for the first time the reasons for the severe defeat suffered by the Rumanian army. Premier Bratianu believed when Rumania entered the war that Bulgaria either would sue for peace or would not fight against Rumania or Russia. One weak point was the fact that the Bulgarian border while the main Rumanian army poured into Transylvania.

RUSSIANS REPULSED. BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The total repulse of the Russian forces from the western bank of the river Narahuvka, in Galicia, has been completed, says the official statement issued by the German army headquarters today. At Petrograd news on the Transylvanian front, the statement adds, 550 Rumanians have been captured.

Artillery Duel on French Front Rages. LONDON, Oct. 23.—"During the night there was considerably enemy shelling against our front between Loos and Guinecourt," says today's official announcement.

'AGREEMENT' IS DENIED BY HUGHES

with the committee of the American Independence Conference in absolutely true. Mr. Hughes saw the committee, of which I was a member, made no promises, did not criticize Roosevelt and made no statement to the committee that he stood for all American rights.

After giving out this telegram Wilcox said:

If the Democrats have any kind of agreement, why don't they present it? They have my consent to find any kind of agreement. This is the cheapest kind of advertising for a lost cause. There was nothing secret about the conference Mr. Hughes had.

MAKES NO PROMISE.

Wilcox went on to say that all manner of citizens and groups of citizens had seen Hughes, but that he had made no promises in any "shape, manner or form."

In speaking of the lack of secrecy, Wilcox took a fling at the Democrats by declaring he didn't think the "same could be said of Burleson and others who have sought out certain racial interests."

"I don't think Mr. Hughes would have a conference at midnight," he declared. The chairman said none of Hughes' conferences were secret and added that in the various organizations who had sent committees to see him the American rights committee was included.

This conference plank, according to the statement from national Democratic headquarters:

We call upon the American people to use the opportunity which the present campaign offers to condemn the abject surrender of the American rights to Mexico and to European nations and to support the man who has openly pledged himself to maintain these rights.

The Democratic statement charges that shortly after the incorporation of this plank J. P. O'Mahoney of Indianapolis and Victor Riddle, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, addressed a meeting of the members of the American Independence Conference in Chicago on publicity and outlined the secret purpose of the conference to support Hughes for President and defeat the election of certain congressmen.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall, who visited Democratic headquarters today, predicted that any party or group trying to hook up with propagandists will "get the worst of it."

"Church and racial questions were injected into the campaign by the Republicans, but they found it would not work," he said. "The great majority of voters are true in their allegiance to America."

A few minutes before midnight Chairman Wilcox issued this statement:

"Chairman Wilcox said this evening that the matter referred to had been brought to the attention of Mr. Hughes over the telephone and that he replied:

"I saw the persons mentioned at their request about the middle of September, just as I have seen all persons and delegations so far as possible who have asked me to receive them."

POSITION IS DEFINITE.

"I have said nothing in private that I have not said in public. At the very beginning, in my speech of acceptance, I declared my position in favor of the absolute protection of American rights. American property and American commerce. This I reiterated to these persons and I have stated it to all others who have asked interviews as well as in my public speeches."

To this maintenance of all American rights I adhere and shall continue to adhere. I have declared over and over again that I have made no private agreements and have engaged in no intrigues and I repeat that statement."

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Better Than Calomel and Cannot Salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, creating and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bowels and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, then remember that your Druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without straining you up inside and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

Big Meeting to Open Campaign

Gifford Pinchot to Speak Before Republicans

Arrangements have been completed for the big meeting at the Municipal Auditorium Wednesday evening which will signal the opening of the Republican two-weeks closing campaign in Alameda county.

Invitations have been sent to all former officers and members of county and state committees to sit with the Vice-presidents on the platform and the response has been such that no doubt can be entertained as to the success of the entire Hughes forces of the county.

Gifford Pinchot and Dan W. Ryan will be the chief speakers and former Governor George C. Pardee will be chairman of the evening. The Republicans will also have a full delegation of vice-presidents at the Hughes demonstration.

COMMITTEE PLANS MANY MEETINGS

All Districts to See Sessions to Discuss Issues of Campaign.

The County Republican Central Committee has arranged a series of meetings throughout the county beginning at the High school auditorium in Alameda, on Tuesday night.

Max Kuhl, Mr. Shortridge and the other speakers will discuss the issues to be settled at the approaching election.

On Thursday night the Fruitvale Republican Club will have a reception and smoker in Judge Warner's court room. A lively program has been prepared and peppery campaign talks will be sandwiched in between the various numbers.

Friday night there is to be a meeting at 1, 12 S. hall, Third-street, and Union streets. It will be under the direction of the thirty-ninth Assembly District Republican Club of which Judge J. J. Quinn is chairman.

Saturday night there will be a Republican gathering at Woodmen's hall, Hayward. Senator E. K. Strobbridge will preside and there will be some fiery addresses by clever speakers.

This morning preliminary steps were taken at the Republican headquarters to perfect the organization of Republican women. Mrs. M. M. Wilson is in charge of work on the details and the plan assured that the women will take a very active part in the closing two weeks of the campaign.

"The women are very much in earnest in this campaign," said Miss O'Brien, "and we realize that having equal suffrage in California it is up to us to do something about it. We represent it. Women will be seen on many platforms in this county advocating Hughes' election during this campaign."

Patton to Be Heard at Hotel Oakland

In closing his campaign in Northern California, George S. Patton, the Democratic candidate for United States senator, will speak to the people of Oakland at the Hotel at 10 o'clock Wednesday evening, October 25.

John J. McDonald, chairman of the Alameda County Democratic Committee, has made all preliminary arrangements for the meeting.

Patton has just concluded a tour of the San Joaquin valley towns, and will spend the next five days in and about the bay cities before returning to the Southland where he will close his campaign.

During the next week United States Senator James D. Phelan will continue to speak with Patton, and will advocate Patton's election to the United States senatorship. Senator Phelan is traveling with Patton and has spoken with him throughout the larger cities of the state.

Phelan and Patton have in a large way been carrying on the campaign of President Wilson in California. Senator Phelan recently arrived from Washington, where he took part in the important legislation enacted by the Wilson administration, and he is asking the people throughout the state to support him.

Mr. Patton, upon the grounds that the latter has subscribed and pledged himself to a constant and continued endorsement of all of President Wilson's policies, and that a vote for Patton is a vote in his unqualified endorsement of the president.

Suicide Victims Are Laid to Rest

Double Funeral Is Last Chapter of Tragedy

Side by side in a common grave, where both, urged to desperation by despondency and grief, sought by taking their own lives, were laid today the remains of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stewart, of 1048 Broadway street.

Acting upon Stewart's instructions, written before he inhaled illuminating gas at his home Saturday night, to "hold my wife for funeral until we can be laid away together," Athens Parlor, No. 135, N. S. St., which took charge of the funeral services, decided to hold a double funeral.

The funeral took place from a local undertaking parlor to Sunnyside cemetery, Berkeley. Rev. Elbert B. Dille of the Trinity Methodist church, Berkeley, officiated. The pallbearers were members of Athens Parlor.

Mrs. Stewart swallowed poison and died after about twenty hours. Her husband, a barber, whom she accused of defrauding her husband in a poolroom sale, Stewart, who was 52 years of age, became despondent and took his own life, later writing instructions about the funeral.

BAKER SCORED BY ROOSEVELT

Cities War Secretary's Speech As Showing Unfitness for Cabinet.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 23.—Colonel Roosevelt had a busy day in Albuquerque, New Mexico's largest city, today. Due to a five-hour stop he was given a breakfast reception from 8 to 9:30 and a noon-day banquet from 12 to 1:30, after he had spoken at 10 o'clock. Roosevelt got another big reception here.

Secretary of War Baker was the particular target for Roosevelt's campaign darts today. The party arrived here about an hour late and the Colonel was glad to hold the extra-hour's sleep. He was slightly tired when he left Phoenix early Sunday.

It became known today that the Colonel probably will answer the appeal of West Virginia and accept for one and perhaps two speeches in that state when he goes to Baltimore. The Baltimore speech will be Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Secretary of War Baker was the particular target for Roosevelt's campaign darts today. The party arrived here about an hour late and the Colonel was glad to hold the extra-hour's sleep. He was slightly tired when he left Phoenix early Sunday.

It became known today that the Colonel probably will answer the appeal of West Virginia and accept for one and perhaps two speeches in that state when he goes to Baltimore. The Baltimore speech will be Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Colonel Roosevelt's address here was as follows:

"I am not an occupier of an improper and unpopulated position and seek to justify myself by precedents from the past, it is almost impossible for them to avoid mistakes. I am not a politician, I desire to quote in my favor."

President Wilson's positions and actions have been entirely justifiable from the standpoint of those who justify the positions of President Wilson. President Wilson, but it is utterly impossible to defend the conduct of President Wilson save by inferentially condemning the conduct of such leaders as Washington, Jackson and Lincoln.

If President Wilson's behavior toward Germany, and especially toward Mexico; if his attitude toward the United States in international affairs are proper, then Washington, Jackson and Lincoln acted improperly in upholding and saving the Union and defending our position against the actions of their readiness and ability to use force. If their attitude toward the army and navy was right, then the attitude of Mr. Wilson in appointing and maintaining Mr. Baker as secretary of the navy and Mr. Baker as secretary of war is wholly indefensible.

EXQUISITELY UNFIT.

Baker is an amiable pacifist who, I do not doubt, could understand respectability along other lines, but he is exquisitely unfit for his present position and would never have been appointed to it if Mr. Wilson had been willing to look at the army from the standpoint of military efficiency instead of creating it purely from the standpoint of temporary political expediency.

Mr. Baker has been engaged recently on several occasions in the defense of Mr. Wilson. His effort is to defend Mr. Wilson's attitude toward Carranza and the Mexican bandits generally by alleging that Washington and his soldiers stood on substantially the same level. He is by no means as astute as Mr. Wilson, but he is more sincere and straightforward.

When he was appointed to the position of secretary of war the newspapers reported him as saying he "knew nothing about the army" that he was a pacifist, and that even when a boy his principles had been such that he never played with tin soldiers.

These useless attributes, and especially Mr. Baker's ignorance and complete ignorance of the job, appealed strongly to Mr. Wilson's own ignorance of all military matters, and the amiable, but wholly unfitness character which this civic duty portrayed is precisely that which Mr. Baker has shown in his office.

He certainly understands nothing of efficiency in war and it is now apparent that he regards all wars as standing on the same level of infamy and all soldiers as equally disreputable. Among his recent exploits was an elaborate conspiracy by him, England and his followers and soldiers in the Revolutionary war with Carranza and the other bandits who are responsible for the present wretched Sabbath in Mexico.

The New York Tribune made a stenographic report of the speech of Mr. Baker at Jersey City on October 16. This speech by an American secretary of war representing the American President had at least the merit of presenting a wholly novel view of the founders of this republic.

Johnson Speaks for Hughes at Bakersfield

Completing a campaign tour down the San Joaquin valley, that for enthusiasm has never been equaled by any candidate, Governor Hiram W. Johnson Saturday night addressed a packed hall at Bakersfield. He spoke not only in behalf of his own candidacy for the United States senatorship, but also, for Charles Evans Hughes for president.

For two weeks the governor has had a succession of demonstrations. A. V. Mason, chairman of the Republican county committee, presided at Saturday's meetings in Kern county. After luncheon at Bakersfield the candidate made a hundred-mile auto drive over the desert to the oil fields for a speech at Taft where nearly a thousand citizens heard him. Accompanying him were Mason, Superior Judge Milton Farmer and Pears and half a dozen others.

Johnson to Speak in Southern Cities

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Republican nominee for United States senator, left here today on a six-day campaign trip through Southern California with speeches planned at Fullerton, Orange and Anaheim today. He will then proceed to Corona, Riverside, Colton, Ontario, Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara, where he will speak Saturday night.

street, and owned by R. H. Barrett, 389 Lower Terrace, San Francisco, and traveling at high rate of speed, swung into East Sixteenth street, just as the street car was crossing.

HITS STREET CAR.

In the fraction of a second, despite the efforts of the driver, to avert the oncoming machine, it smashed headlong into the street car. The air supply tank of the car was broken from the feed pipe that controls the brakes by the impact, and in the next instant the car was helpless and started on its wild ride down the hill with its cargo of precious humanity.

The automobile, in which were Fogh and Glenn Kellogg, 1219 Nineteenth street, to whom Fogh was demonstrating the machine, was dragged for a short distance and both front tires ripped off.

As the car started down the hill the passengers realized that something was wrong. Most of them jumped their feet. Women passengers began to scream, their voices arousing residents along the street to the knowledge that something was amiss. Stewart, the motorman, attempting to stop the vehicle by reversing his car, collected a number of blows from an old type recently rebuilt and did not respond.

As the car approached the curve at the foot of the grade Stewart saw what was going to happen. He shouted to the passengers to hold on to the seats. His presence of mind is said to have been responsible in minimizing the injuries of the passengers to a great extent. The next instant the car struck the curve on Fourteenth avenue, balanced on two wheels for the fraction of a second and then tipped over on its southern side, sliding along parallel to the curb for a distance of 20 feet.

Conductor Morehead was hurled almost the full length of the car, sustaining lacerations about the face and head. The rest of the passengers were scattered in all directions or hurled against the seats, walls and roof of the car.

RESCUE PARTIES TO AID.

Almost immediately rescue parties came to the assistance of the injured. Persons living in the vicinity responded when they heard of the crash of the overturning car, as did passing automobilists. R. H. Marchant, of the Marchant Calculating Machine Company, who was following the car in his automobile, stopped at the spot, and then filling his machine with injured, rushed them away for treatment. Within a few minutes a score of ambulances from every available hospital in the city and a dozen private machines were on the spot. A call to the fire department brought two engine companies, members of which, with their fire axes, chopped the car into sections and assisted in the work of rescue.

OFF TO HOSPITAL.

Most of the injured were taken to the Central Emergency hospital, where Drs. W. H. Irwin, C. A. Dewey and A. B. Smith, Stewart Davidson and Assistant Surgeon Charles E. May were busy until late at night attending to the injuries. Mrs. F. F. Fredericks, 6015 Congress avenue, who was thrown against the window of the car, and sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries; Mrs. Mattie Schwartz, 1733 East Sixteenth street; Mrs. Frances Marshall, 2617 East Sixteenth street, who were the most seriously injured, were given emergency treatment and rushed to the hospital. All are reported on the way to recovery except Mrs. Tozer.

Pioneer Family Loses Daughter

Funeral Tomorrow for Mrs. Sophia Fox

Following a long illness, Mrs. Sophia Fox, daughter of one of the few California pioneer families, died at her home, 1194 Guerrero street, San Francisco. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both services and interment are to be private.

Mrs. Fox was Sophia Moraga before her marriage and the daughter of Gabriel Ignatius Moraga, an old-time resident of Alameda and Contra Costa counties and the son of Spanish grandees. It was his father, Jose Moraga, who built the first road from the Mount of Olivet to Oakland.

Joquin B. Moraga, his grandfather, was a holder of large tracts of land in the adjoining county under a grant from the Spanish government.

Born in Contra Costa county, thirty years ago, Mrs. Fox remained there until her marriage to Claude Fox, at present of San Francisco. Members of the immediate family include the husband, Claude Fox; mother, Mrs. Ella Moraga; father, G. I. Moraga; four sisters and a brother. Anthony O'Brien and Eugene Moraga reside in Oakland.

Mrs. M. P. Kemmer of Los Angeles and Mrs. Rose Vining of San Francisco complete the names of those nearest the deceased.

Slayer of Sheriff Is Killed by Posse

WHITESTON, N. Y., Oct. 23.—After killing Sheriff Paul Stier of Queens county with a shotgun and keeping at bay a posse of police and deputy sheriffs who had surrounded his home, Frank T. Stier, 35 years old, was shot and instantly killed by one of the beslegers today. Taft shot Stier, who served him with a warrant after he had been adjudged in contempt of court for failing to appear as a witness.

ALLIGATORS AKE SOLD.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The last remnant of "Alligator Joe's" collection, which was being exhibited as a concession at the Panama-Pacific Exposition when the owner, Warren Frazee, died, was disposed of at auction today by Public Administrator Hynes. Two 1400-year-old alligators, brought $75 and fifty baby alligators, whose ages run up from 100 to 1000 years, yielded only $20 apiece.

STUERCKH SLAYER CRAZED, IS BELIEF

Opposition to Berlin Domination Causes Murder of the Austrian Premier.

VIENNA, Oct. 23, via London.—Dr. Frederick Adler, the assassin of the Austrian premier, Count Karl Stuerckh, is being held by the police awaiting trial. He maintains his innocence. The population of Vienna is recovering from the shock of the assassination. Throughout the empire Dr. Adler's act is deplored and looked upon as the deed of a fanatic.

Dr. Adler was an editor of the Social party, but severed his connection with the party some time ago because of its attitude in supporting the government's war policy.

The assassin is known as a very morose man. There has been insanity in his family.

BERLIN, Oct. 23, via London.—All accounts in the morning papers agree in calling the assassination of Premier Stuerckh of Austria the deed of an irresponsible political fanatic, if not a neurasthenic whose mind has given way under the strain of the war.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The morning papers print long editorials on the assassination of Premier Stuerckh. The general opinion expressed is that the removal of Stuerckh is the work of men who wish to free the Austrian government from a clique of politicians who are largely controlled by the Hungarian Premier Tisza in the interests of the Magyars and Germany. On this theory the assassination is held to represent an Austrian movement to escape from the domination of Berlin. The Daily News says:

The murder is the natural outcome of the policy of sitting on the safety valve, of which Stuerckh was the embodiment. Where all the means of effective public opposition to a government is denied the right of public vengeance will generally reassert itself in some form or other.

The assassination of Stuerckh is by far the most noteworthy incident in this career. Though the crime may be but a minor explosion, it appears to have made some noise at Berlin. We cannot promise to foretell its further reverberations.

The Morning Post sees in the event a protest against absolutism which may be followed by a reign of terror. Expressing similar thoughts the Chronicle says:

Among the Austrian masses the suffering brought on by the war has bred desperation and however its outbreaks may be repressed while the war lasts, there must be menace of revolution as soon as it is over to which the Austrian governing class cannot be indifferent.

Mine Death Toll May Reach Twenty

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 23.—The death toll resulting from the gas explosion in the Marvel mine, thirty-five miles south of Birmingham, will contain fifteen, and possibly twenty, names, it became known today when the twelfth body was brought out by rescuers.

They reported at least three more bodies to be recovered and there are five other men unaccounted for.

To Represent City at Keel Laying

Commissioner W. H. EXTORTION CHARGE OF AGED CASHIER

Expert Is Accused of Extorting Money From the Prisoner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Threats of exposure and denunciation, alleged to have been made in order to force the payment of $1000, were testified to today by Samuel Otis Walker, aged secretary and cashier of the California Cured Fruit Exchange, defending himself in a suit to recover $750 on promissory notes.

Walker, who has been held to answer to the Superior Court, accused of embezzling nearly $40,000 from his corporation, charges that he was lured to sign four promissory notes for $250 each under threats of exposure two months before he was taken into custody by the police.

Walker was still on the witness stand at the noon adjournment. Walker is 70 years old and was arrested February 29. The specific charge against him in the Police Court was $8160.46, but the exact amount is said to be $40,000.

Police Think They Have Motor Bandits

With the arrest by the Reno, Nevada, police today of Fred Wallace and Ernest Dumsing, the Oakland authorities believe that they have captured two more members of a band of motor car thieves which has been operating between Oakland, San Francisco, Reno and Los Angeles for the past several months. The two are charged with grand larceny, and Police Inspector W. J. Emigh will leave for Reno tonight, and will return with the prisoners.

Dumsing and Wallace are alleged to have stolen a motor car belonging to Irvin Sonshaband, 609 Seventh street, on October 17. The Reno police say the two had the stolen car in their possession when they were arrested.

How do you make the Owl mellow?

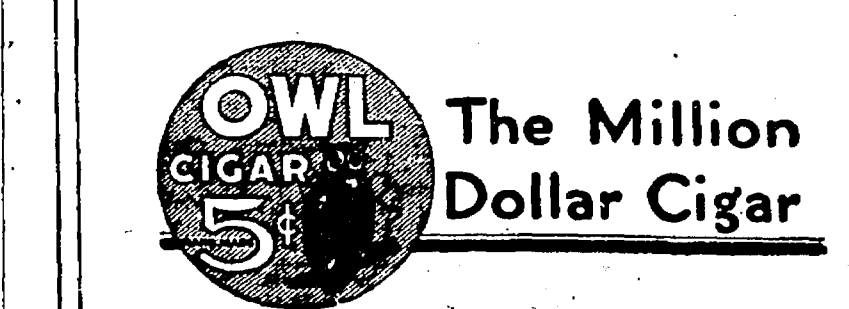

"JUST use mellow tobacco," says Alec Wise-acres.

But wait! Mellow means "thoroughly cured." And curing takes time. 18 months it takes—sometimes longer.

No ordinary, slap-dash manufacturing method will turn out a sure-enough mellow cigar. You've got to be sure every leaf is mellow before you use it.

They do this in the OWL factories. It takes a lot of time. It takes work—careful work. It takes an investment of over a million dollars in reserve leaf that is waiting to reach the proper degree of mellowness.

But the results make the effort worth while. For the OWL is a mellow smoke.

Acting Mayor Would Investigate, But Needs Extra Vote in Council; Says Too Many Deputies Are Drawing Salary

Commissioner W. H. Edwards, who is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Davis, wants the office of City Attorney Paul C. Mori investigated. He said today that he is waiting for another vote on the council to support his motion that a thorough investigation be made of the methods employed in Mori's office.

"In the past the city attorney's office was taken care of by no more than four men," he says. "Look at it now. In addition to the regular force De Laurey Smith is being engaged in 'special work.' Just what that 'special work' is I cannot tell. I do not know. Then C. A. Beardsley is receiving money from the city to represent it in the Merritt Hospital case soon to come before the appellate court. More special counsel will be asked for by Mori, I suppose, soon, to represent the city at the State Railroad Commission's hearings on water rates November 6. There is something wrong in this, and the city attorney's office should be investigated."

The city attorney's regular staff now includes George B. Jackson, assistant city attorney; William H. O'Brien, deputy, and John J. Earle, deputy. Jackson is a brother of Dr. F. F. Jackson, commissioner of public health and safety.

Edwards is also fighting to change the method in which ordinance appropriating money are introduced in council. He had a row with Commissioner Jackson over such a question last week, when Jackson introduced an ordinance appropriating $3000 for the purchase of a city service truck. Edwards wants all the commissioners to discuss proposed appropriations before ordinances are introduced in council.

"I'll keep hammering away at this until I get some results," he declared today.

Blue Bird Bureau

With the authority of a diminutive mother, she ushered her brother, only a few years her junior, into the Blue Bird Bureau, and explained that he must have a pair of shoes in order that he might continue to go to school. She had him fit with one foot and then the other, to show that he was walking on the ragged remains of what had once been stockings. She said nothing of her own needs.

The girl was scarce 14, but although her eyes were bright and she would smile merrily at times, there was an air of responsibility about her. The reason for this became evident when she explained that she was the oldest of eight.

She said nothing of her own needs, and it was not until the boy had been successfully fitted with a pair of shoes that she looked at the row of women's shoes, some of them worn down at heel and bedraggled, some of them almost new, but ultra stylish of a style that was past many months ago.

They were not, many of them, the kind of shoes a little girl would feel comfortable in, going to school.

"I wonder if there are any there that would fit me," she remarked.

We searched among the pile, and after measuring several sizes against the paper thinness of her own, she found a shoe that fitted her.

The girl's face beamed.

"These will be fine to go to school in. I won't have to have wet feet."

We looked and looked. Happiness changed to fading hope, hope to despair. Someone who had sent clothes and shoes to Blue Bird had put in only one shoe of a pair, or the mate had gotten lost.

"It's just my luck," murmured the girl, half to herself. But she brightened up, and added:

"But we are very thankful to get a pair for Ned."

In the hope that a shoe that would fit her, and that would be accompanied by its mate, might be sent in, she was urged to come back again this week. I asked her the size of her foot.

"I don't know," she said. "Most of my shoes have been given to me since my father has been sick."

For this man there is certainly work enough in Oakland to keep him through the winter. For he has skill and tools, and he is willing to work.

Our friend is an upholsterer. He has worked about Oakland for some twenty years or more, but has been away recently. He has done good work, well recommended, in that time. Work has fallen off. People have not known how to find him and have called other upholsterers from advertised establishments to their homes.

For four months he has had almost no work, and his little stock of savings has dwindled away.

He says he is ready to prove and give references that he can make an old sofa or davenport or easy chair look like a new piece of furniture.

That kind of shoe a little girl would feel comfortable in, going to school.

The Making and Furnishing of a Home

BUILDERS SHOULD USE WESTERN WOOD

By A. B. WASTELL

It is to be hoped that the western home builders will specify our western woods, insuring them variety and beauty of finish and also the satisfaction that in patronizing home industry they are advancing the prosperity of the West.

CALIFORNIA REDWOOD.

The redwood is a distinctive California tree, its range being confined to the fog belt, extending from the coast inland from ten to thirty miles along the three north-west counties, Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino. The trees are large and grow in nearly pure stands.

A wood of striking individuality, possessing beauty of grain and richness of color, redwood excels for inside finish, but is also suited to a diversity of other important uses. Mother Nature has imparted, through the centuries of growth, an antiseptic quality that makes redwood rot-resistant; it is also fire-retardant and of consequent special value for use in exposed situations.

A permanent exhibit of redwood interior finish, showing a suite of rooms, has been installed as a window display at the Pacific Building, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets, Oakland.

Reception hall, library, dining-room and bedroom are shown in different color effects, produced by the use of "Penford Color Finishes," these have been evolved by a series of experiments, and are very effectively shown in paneling and interior trim, beautifully stained in various rich tones, harmoniously carried out in hangings and furniture, while Penford-process carved chests and screens of both redwood and Port Orford cedar are shown in original designs and color tones to suit different periods of interiors or furniture. Oriental, Old English, Gothic or Renaissance. Development is under way for extension of this process carving into architectural use, both interior and exterior; one use already adopted by several architects is simulating old-weathered effect in rustic gateways and trim and paneling for library interiors by processing California redwood, so as to cut away the soft grain of the wood, leaving the hard grain in relief, which, when stained a silver gray for exterior, or soft brown for interior, looks as though "to the manner born."

FINISHING CALIFORNIA REDWOOD.

California redwood can be finished so as to preserve the natural old rose tones of the wood, which must be perfectly dry, by scraping and sand papering thoroughly, with the grain of the wood, to a perfect surface, follow with application of two coats of pure white shellac thinned with grain alcohol, then wax with two coats of bees wax, one pound of wax with one gallon of turpentine, applied hot, allow twenty-four hours to dry between coats, rub with stiff brush and finish with cloth, to polish desired.

For stained effect, scrape and sand paper thoroughly, apply one coat of pure white shellac, then mix pigment of any color desired with white lead or zinc oxide and oil, thin with turpentine. Apply mixture with a brush, while wet, wipe with soft cheese cloth, leaving thin film of color through which the beautiful grain of the redwood can be distinguished.

ARMY MULE MAY BE TORPEDOED BY
NAVY GRIDIRONERS

Chances of Annapolis in the Annual Game Regarded Excellent.

By H. C. HAMILTON.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Oct. 22. — The chances of victory for the Navy in its game November 25 with the Army, which has won three straight years, is considered excellent today by football followers in the East.

This season is getting more attention now than at any time during the season and it is all because Dartmouth's bone-crushing machine was put out of gear when it staggered into a clash with Georgetown.

The Navy has been rather easy for the Army for years, but right now the midshipmen are carrying the long end of the betting odds for the big game to be pulled off November 25 at the Polo Grounds. And here is the reason:

HOLD OWNERS.
The Navy was defeated by the wonderful Pittsburgh eleven by the bare margin of a single point and therein Pittsburgh wallowed Syracuse by an almost ridiculous score. Also the Navy defeated Georgetown and the Washington eleven then went to Haverhill, Mass., where it put a dent in the aspirations of Dartmouth. With these things happening it isn't hard to guess that at Annapolis a strong offensive has been developed and a great defense perfected.

Yale, battered throughout the season in games which were not important, has suffered a new blow. Today it was announced that Chub Sheldon, star guard, who went to a hospital last week to recover "from an illness," probably never will play another game of football. He is suffering from acute articular rheumatism, with complications, and his condition is alarming.

YALE COACH WORRIED.
Coach Ted Jones admittedly is worrying over this new blow to his team. His squad has been beset by one injury after another all year.

Harvard is beginning to show better and there is more confidence now in Cambridge as the big game looms.

Harvard with Cornell than at any time during the year. Percy Haughton has been kicked and wheeled to real foot ball into his men and they are beginning to drive with the old Crimson pep.

OAKS ARE SHORN
TO 13 PLAYERS ON
SALT LAKE TRIP

Pitchers Will Have to Fill in if Anyone is Injured.

Del Howard accompanied by only 13 players is on his way to Salt Lake today. This is the smallest squad that has ever represented a traveling club in the Pacific Coast League. Howard is depending upon four pitchers to carry him through the Salt Lake series, which is little more than a sideshow, considering the way the bees are behaving.

Martin Prough, Boer and Boyd will have to do all the hurrying. Callan and Vann are the catchers. No utility player is carried, so the pitchers will have to fill in anyone hurt. The home team was counted by Boss Del from the Spokane club after nearly a month of clanking. Menor, in different positions in the Indians, batted like a fiend and had a .505 average posted along side his name at the termination of the Northwest race. His all-around playing, however, was a special feature. For he played in every position in the infield and outfield and his fielding was on a par with his ability to garner base hits.

LEAGUE TWIRLERS ARE SHOWN UP

"Swede" Risberg Checks the Oaks Where Maier's "Stars" Fail.

Swede Risberg, Vernon second baseman, stepped to the mound yesterday afternoon and showed up Eddie Maier's big league pitching staff. The Oaks had won six straight and were on their way for a clean sweep of the series, when Risberg replaced Jack O'Leary, the box and turned back Del Howard's sharpshooters. Oakland won the morning game, 3 to 0, and lost the afternoon session, 9 to 2.

Speed Martin has never shown better form than he displayed here yesterday morning. His change of pace baffled the Tigers and he fanned Bates twice with a hooker that broke three feet.

Buster Callan had difficulty in holding the young pitcher, there was so much hitting on the ball. Doubles by Leno and Kenworthy figured in the Oakland run-getting. Leno, Boer and Whitte took the afternoon beating. Scores:

RATE REHEARING GRANTED.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has granted a rehearing in matter of abolishing the existing preferential freight rates from and to Pacific Coast cities on transcontinental shipments by rail. This means that the Pacific Coast shippers, manufacturers and consumers have gained the first step in their fight to have the existing rates made permanent. Hearings will begin in Chicago November 20th and the San Francisco sessions will open December 4th.

There is good reason to believe that the order abolishing the preferential rates was issued through misapprehension of the real economic situation, due in large part to the failure of the western shippers fully to present their case before the commission. Surely there will be no such omission at the new hearings.

Several points weigh in favor of protesting shippers. In the first place, the preferential rates were established by the commission upon the petition of the railroads, who made the plea that they were necessary in order to enable them to meet Panama Canal competition. While that competition has been temporarily suspended, it has not been permanently eliminated, and the laws creating the interstate commission provide that when a rail rate is once lowered it shall not again be raised except for reasons other than the elimination of water competition. So the shippers would seem to be favored by the legal considerations of the question.

In the second place, the order rescinding the preferential rates to coast cities was issued in accordance with the petition of the railroads, which was based on the grounds that canal competition had been eliminated; that canal steamship rates would not again be lowered to that level that induced the roads to ask to be allowed to fix a preferential schedule. The railroads did not urge that cost of operation and other financial burdens necessitated additional revenues. Their case was quite frankly shown to rest on a new understanding between the railroads and the steamship companies operating ships through the canal.

In the third place, manufacturers and operators of industrial plants have mapped out long programs of future business on the basis of the existing preferential rates. To impose higher rates would mean heavy losses. It would force some concerns to go out of business.

Local business men should co-operate in making a complete exposition of the situation when the Interstate Commerce Commission hearings are held here during the first week in December. They have a good case, and if they do not now succeed in convincing the commission that the present rates should continue in force indefinitely they will not get another chance.

PULITZER, FATHER AND SON.

The New York World is the most uncompromising of the greater journals that are opposing the election of Charles Evans Hughes. Taking account of some incidents not entirely disassociating the World and Mr. Hughes, this is rather interesting.

That newspaper, in its later era, is the creation of the late Joseph Pulitzer, a man whose ability to judge men was undoubted. The World of today is controlled by his son. It would seem that it is not being run with much respect to the traditions established by the elder. Because the first Joseph Pulitzer had a regard for Hughes that was expressed in the following codicil to his will:

I, Joseph Pulitzer, hereby nominate and appoint Charles Evans Hughes, now or late Governor of the State of New York, to be executor and trustee in place of the said Dumont Clarke with like force and effect as if he had been originally named as executor and trustee. I give and bequeath to said Charles Evans Hughes the sum of one hundred thousand ($100,000). And I direct that no bond or security shall be required.

The present proprietor of the World may not have a sentimental side, and may be absolved from the extreme regard for the candidate that his father had for the man; but it would seem that a decent respect for the expressed predilection of his progenitor, not to say for appearances, might have subdued the virulence of his opposition and so attuned his columns that they would not have disclosed such wide discrepancy between father and son in their estimate of a national character.

The facts contained in the codicil, here reprinted in part, may largely be forgotten history. For fear that they are, the further fact that Mr. Hughes declined the trust—put aside the princely gift and other considerable emoluments, and the further advantage of having a hand in determining the course of a powerful newspaper—may very properly be remembered to his credit. He felt that his appointment to a place on the bench of the Supreme Court rendered him ineligible. Not ineligible in law—some of his friends could see no objection to his acceptance of the trust—but ineligible ethically. It was characteristic of Mr. Hughes to be governed by what was right in the higher sense.

PROPOSITIONS NO. 4 AND 6.

Proposition No. 4 on the November ballot is the partisan registration direct primary law which is to be voted on by the people as a result of the referendum invoked against the non-partisan registration act passed at the special session of the legislature last January.

The essential and important feature of the proposed law is to require that the voter shall declare his party affiliation at the time of registration. It will preserve to the people the right to participate in the government through party organization. This is one of the most valuable privileges of the electors and should never be surrendered. The new law will require candidates for political office, state and national, to be nominated by parties and will provide the only efficient safeguard against political bosses "packing" elections and wholly dominating primaries by voting the boss-controlled votes of one party in another party. Partisans will be permitted to vote only for the candidates of that party in which they are registered. The referendum against the non-partisan registration law was signed by several thousand more voters than necessary to get the new law on the ballot. Every voter who believes that parties should be preserved in their full integrity should vote "Yes" on proposition No. 4.

Proposition No. 6 is a companion measure to No. 4. It is on the ballot as a result of initiative petitions and would make a State senator or assemblyman ineligible to hold any appointive office, trust or employment in the State government during the term for which he was elected senator or assemblyman.

A fundamental doctrine of our governmental system is that the three departments of government—legislative, judicial and executive—should be kept entirely separate. A legislator cannot be free from official relation with the executive department if he hold an appointive executive office. And he should not be placed in a position where he will be tempted to vote for a legislative measure solely by the hope of retaining or securing appointment in office. This law will prevent any governor from influencing legislative action by the promise of compensation in the form of salary of an appointive office.

It will make for a great degree of honesty in legislative office and prevent the use of executive power to corrupt the legislature. Initiative proposition No. 6 should become a law immediately. Vote "Yes."

MR. SCHWAB'S JUDGMENT.

Mr. Charles M. Schwab has never been a speculator; he says his only pleasure in life is work and achievement. He owns quite a large batch of Bethlehem Steel Company shares which have multiplied in value since the war started, and which he could have sold for a fabulous sum. He will hold on to them.

Once upon a time Mr. Schwab was working for $1 a day; fifteen years later he was earning a salary of $3000 a day. At twenty-four he was directing the work of 6000 men; at thirty-nine he was president of the United States Steel Corporation. Then he staked every cent he owned or could borrow on a bankrupt concern—the Bethlehem Steel Company. Today his new company ranks next after his older one.

Mr. Schwab came and saw the superior advantages of the mainland side of San Francisco bay as a location for industrial establishments. He is investing a large sum of money in an iron works and shipbuilding plant on the Alameda side of the estuary. In time the great Union Iron Works in San Francisco will be moved to this side of the bay. Mr. Schwab has foreseen the destiny of Oakland as an industrial and manufacturing center.

THE SOUTH AND THE NATION.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

It is not astonishing that Democratic pleaders try to make a sentimental protest against mention of the position and strength of the south in the Democratic party. The party leaders naturally want to avoid the issue. The easiest way would be to make it taboo.

Republicans are accused of arousing dormant, if not dying, sectional passion; of waving the bloody shirt and exciting one section to rage against another. Mr. Wilson says that no man who directs an argument in this direction can be a friend of his country. It is sedition to speak of the south. This is a part of the same general scheme of political thought which holds it sedition to vote against Mr. Wilson. A passionate and powerful friend of Mr. Wilson said with feeling that it would be sedition.

In the conception of the more inflamed of Mr. Wilson's supporters this ought to be a Mexican election, no one being permitted to mention an issue or vote for the opposition candidate.

This has not been the American idea of a campaign, as hitherto held, and we do not feel inclined to surrender a real issue merely because the politicians hurt by the argument raise a sentimental outcry about it. The discussion is entirely without rancor on this side and if the Democrats wish to inject rancor into it and if Southerners want to feel that their traditions and sympathies are outraged malignantly they must suit themselves.

The problem presented by the south is this: It is a section in which all political issues are predetermined. The "solid" South means simply that it was decided fifty years ago how the South will vote next November. There is no political doubt in the South. There can be no political issues in the South. There is no political questioning.

NOTES and COMMENT

Joshing surmise by the Santa Ana Blade: "The police of Oakland are looking for a missing man who is 92 years old. Just offhand, we would say he is out joy-riding."

Reckless summing-up by the Marysville Appeal: "It is a doubtful compliment to be called pretty in a metropolitan newspaper. All it requires to be called pretty in a big journal is to elope, pass a bogus check or dance a classic version of the hula hula."

The Marysville Appeal gives its friends advice, thus: "The local toupee brigade should rise in its might and protest against the publication of that picture of Sheriff Charles J. McCoy. That picture was taken before McCoy raised that luxuriant crop of hair, over night."

This from the Chico Enterprise would seem to indicate that diners up that way have a queer habit with their forks: "Who would have suspected John H. Gull Jr., Diamond Match banquet toastmaster and leading public spirit, of having an iron claw up his sleeve?"

Professor Hugo Muensterberg is doing his best to take the joy out of life for a good many people by declaring that Russia and Japan will make it up with Germany and Austria next spring. In the meantime, it would appear, they are to hammer each other to the queen's—and kings'—taste.

The Benicia Herald presents this sociological: "The country newspaper is sometimes laughed at for mentioning anything so trivial as the building of a new barn. But what do you think of the San Francisco paper last week that devoted most of its front page and some of its second page to the secret loves of a traveling salesman?"

The Redlands Review, taking account of the new half-dollar, which is to have an olive branch on one side and an eagle in full flight on the other, thinks it is entitled to the designation of Wilson money. And the Santa Ana Blade wants to know what is the matter with circling around the edge the words "Too Proud to Fight."

The insurance companies have gone into court to get rid of paying $150,000 on the death of Reginald Vanderbilt, who went down with the Lusitania. It is contended that his death "was brought about solely through external, violent and accidental means"; which suggests that an insured person must die according to some innocuous formula to get the money.

Disquisition on pie from the Richmond Record-Herald: "When you ordered that piece of pie in the restaurant did you notice any symptoms of the high cost of living about it? The symptoms were there all right, in a negative way, to be sure, but quite conspicuous, nevertheless. Time was, and not so very long ago, either, when there were six wedges to a pie in the ordinary restaurant. But those beautiful days have fled. Today there are seven."

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

But the bean men are not waiting alone on the weather. There's Clarence Chrisman, with some 300 acres of beans at stake. Today he has 120 men turning over the piles of beans in order to gather the more wind and sunbust to the pods; tomorrow he will have fifty more forkers in the field.—Ventura Free Press.

Judge Beasley of Santa Cruz, presiding in the court at San Jose, imposed a sentence of five years in San Quentin for Antonio Fodera. Fodera ran down and killed a young student—Hector Zapada—at Mayfield. It seems to have been a case of reckless driving and failure to render assistance.—Marin Journal.

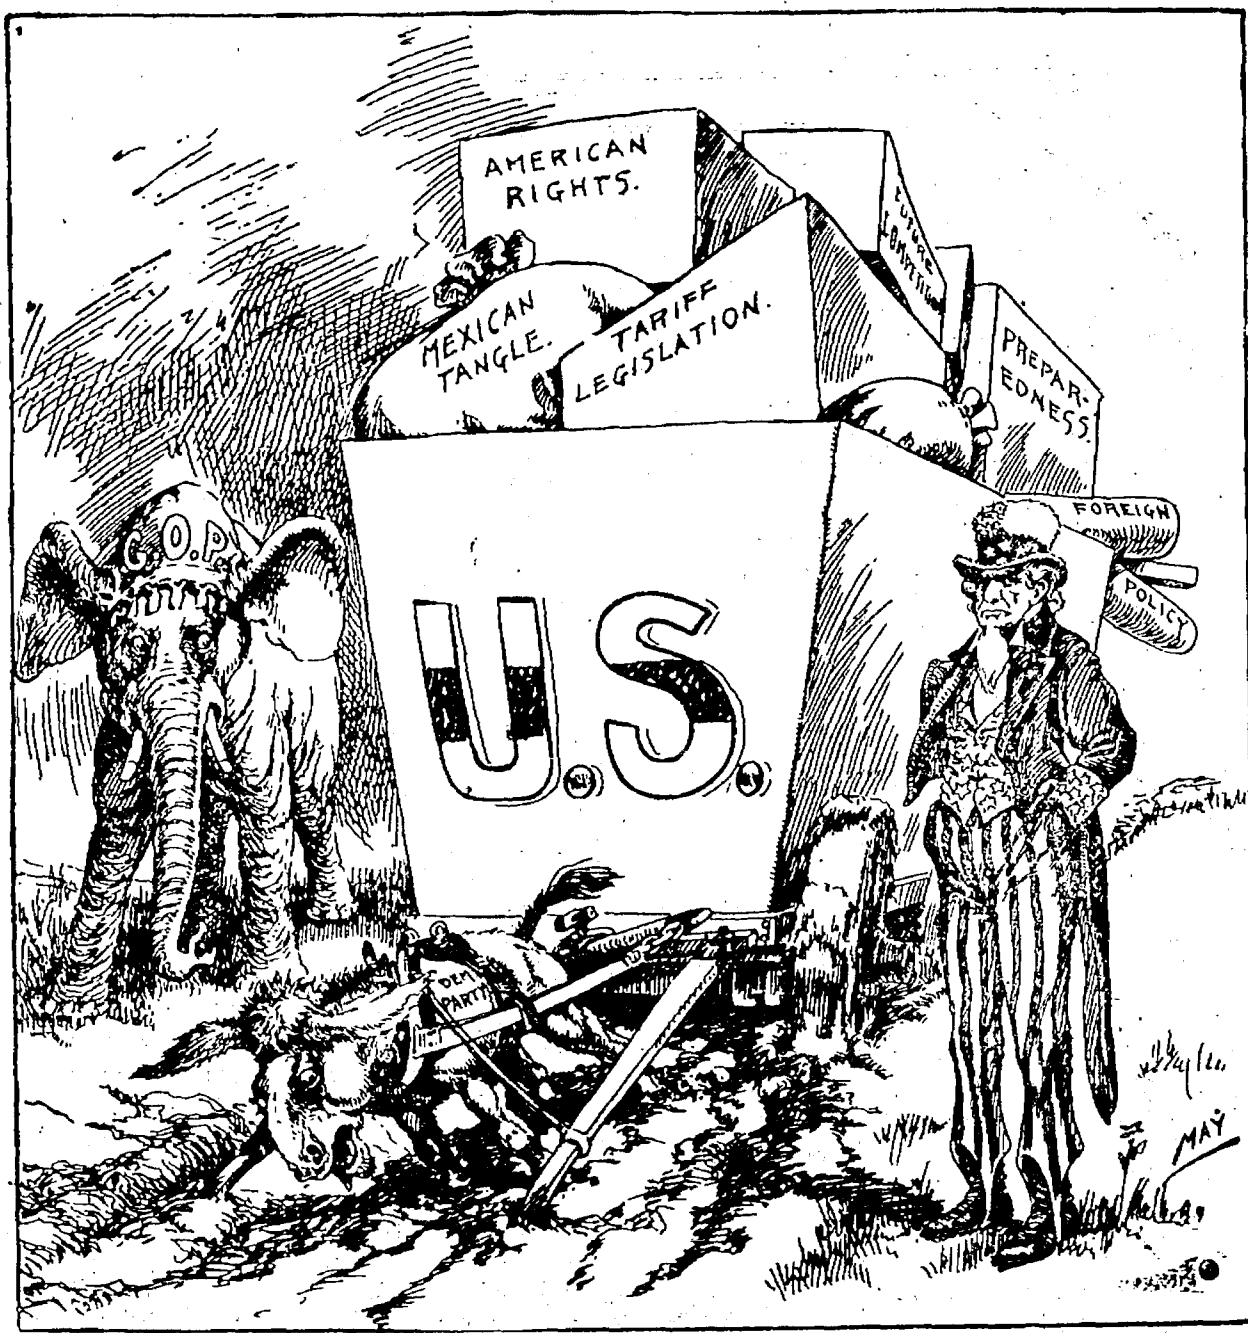

Mrs. Winifred Carr attended the surprise reception given to R. R. Ralston Tuesday night. She tied her horse to a post. On Wednesday the horse and buggy were found tied to a hitching rail on a back street in Santa Barbara. Someone who evidently wanted a ride to Santa Barbara had stolen the rig.—Ventura Free Press.

The opening of the duck season was very disappointing to a good many of the local sports, as we have not heard of a limit being killed. There is no considerable kicking about shooting before it was even daylight. Quite a number were shooting on Sunday and had the ducks pretty well scared, and as soon as shooting started Monday the ducks just got up and beat it for other fields.—Gustine Standard.

CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT.

If it be true that the representative system which is the very basic principle of our government is being perverted until its very existence is threatened, that the federal element has been ignored almost to the point of being neglected, and that the lines of responsibility between the states and the nation are now so faintly drawn as to be almost undiscernable; if it be true that the name of efficiency and the public welfare of the nation are being sacrificed to a dangerous degree and are exercising functions entirely alien to their true spirit; if it be true that these tendencies are not only not being combated by any vigorous opposition, but are instead receiving practical encouragement on every hand; if it be the fact, as I firmly believe it is, that such tendencies unless checked will make the success of our system of government as devised impossible, and will ultimately result in chaotic conditions, the end of which no one can predict, then indeed, there is a great duty laid upon all who perceive and appreciate the situation. The time must come when it will be possible to point out that the greatest good to the greatest number must result from adhering to the essential spirit that animated our existence. That if this tendency is unchecked and power without regard to authority is therefore exercised, merely because it promises beneficial things, there is nothing which stands between the citizen and absolute tyranny.—From address of J. H. M. Garrison, former secretary of War, before the American Bar Association.

UNCLE SAM: "ABOUT TIME TO CHANGE MOTORS, ISN'T IT?"

VIDIN AND CALAFAT

"The strongly fortified town of Vidin (also spelled Vidina and Vidna), from which the Bulgarians have made an attack on the Rumanian town of Calafat, is one of the most prosperous grain ports on the right bank of the Danube below Belgrade," says the war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

"Situated in the northwest corner of the kingdom of Bulgaria, 130 miles in an arched line from the Serbian capital of Belgrade, 100 miles northwest of Sofia and 170 west of Bucharest, this city was, before the outbreak of this war, a center of activity for trade between Austria and the Balkan states."

"Vidin is a natural stronghold because of the extensive surrounding marshes formed by the numerous small streams flowing into the Danube at this point. The fortifications were razed following the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78, but they were reconstructed during the Serbo-Bulgarian conflict of thirty years ago. Portions of the old wall and four of its nine towers still encircle the old town, but the newer section lies along the bank of the river."

"An interesting element among the city's 16,000 inhabitants is a settlement of Spanish Jews, 1500 in number, descendants of a small colony which fled from Spain during the Inquisition of the sixteenth century. The Turks residing in the town number nearly 3000."

"While the trade in cereals and fruits, the considerable fisheries and the numerous breweries afford a livelihood for the majority of the Vidinians, the city is chiefly noted for the beautiful filigree work in gold and silver which is manufactured here."

"Like most of the towns and forts on the Danube in the vicinity of the Hungarian border, Vidin suffered sorely from the tides of Turks and Christians as they swept through and over it in the seventeenth century. In the Austro-Turkish struggle of 1682-99 it was captured by Louis, margrave of Baden, one of the most celebrated generals of his day, but it remained in his hands only one year, for in the succeeding campaign it was recaptured by the Ottoman forces, which also retook Nisch and Belgrade."

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

A strong appeal made to Dr. Coyle entreating him not to leave the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, has had its effect. He will not go east, as contemplated.

Target shooting will be added to the regular University of California sports in the future.

When the Associated Charities have from twelve to fifteen men a day—strong, able-bodied men—ready and willing to work, who labor for food and lodgings. It is an indisputable fact that something is radically wrong with the times.

The old Sixth street engine house was sold at auction yesterday for $120 to J. Pantowsky. The structure will soon be razed to the ground and a new one will be built in its stead.

WHERE MODISTES MOURN.

Just as the girls of the various towns and provinces of Holland are to be distinguished by the peculiar form of their quaint head-dresses, so the girls of Sardinian villages are known by the combination of colors in their costumes. The women and children dress alike—full skirts, usually dark red; white waists with full sleeves, and short bright red or bright blue jackets, open in front or laced around the waist. In some districts the pattern of the apron is the distinctive feature.

The styles never change among the women of Sardinia, who wear the native costume; so it repays the seamstress, the wearer, and the embroiderer expert to make garments that will last a lifetime; and can then be handed down as heirlooms for rising generations.—National Geographic Magazine.

AUTUMN.

Midas touched the autumn wood—Gold was everywhere; When the gods took back his gift, Lo, the trees were bare. —New York Sun.

"Vidin was given its 'place in the sun' by a notoriously ruthless, but remarkably efficient" chief of the Krailis, Pashan Oglu, who here established an independent state in 1794. The Krailis were disbanded by Turkish soldiers and desperadoes who defied all constituted authority and who, during the last half of the eighteenth century, wandered through Bulgaria, preying upon peasants, slaying, robbing, burning all who were so unfortunate as to stand in their path. Pashan Oglu amalgamated these bandits and highwaymen and as their leader established himself at Vidin, where he was able to defy and defeat three Turkish armies sent against him. He erected handsome buildings, maintained order within his own capital, levied taxes and even issued a special coinage. When he finally submitted to a superior force sent against him the Porte deemed it wiser to reinstate him as governor than to displace him with a less forceful subject. With his death in 1807 Vidin's importance waned."

"Of this period and the suffering which the Krailis inflicted upon the surrounding country a vivid picture has been preserved in the memoirs of a bishop of Vratza, who wrote: 'My diocese has been laid desolate; villages have disappeared, burnt by Krailis and Pashan's brigands.'"

"In the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78 Prince Charles of Rumania, at the head of an army of 35,000 men, with his own hand fired the first cannon against Vidin from the Rumanian town of Calafat. At that time the Bulgarian stronghold was garrisoned by Osman Pasha's army of 40,000 Turks, who had just completed their successful campaign against Serbia. Eight years later, in the Serbo-Bulgarian struggle, Vidin was successfully defended by the Bulgars."

"Calafat, on the Rumanian side of the river, is not more than half as populous as Vidin. It was founded in the fourteenth century by a colony of Genoese from whose workmen (Calafats), employed in repairing boats, the town derived its name. Vidin is of much more ancient origin, having been known as Bononia in Roman days. In the Crimean war of 1854 a camp of Rumanians at Calafat was surprised and defeated by a Turkish force under Ahmed Pasha."

THE ONSET OF YOUTH.

"Give way, give way!" From space I hear some Genius call: "Wouldst thou have more than thy full day?" Come others now—so, rearward fall."

"Give way, give way!" So sharp the challenge in the ears; I am not wonted to obey— I thought me firmly throned in years!

"Give way, give way!" Lo, there they come, with sun-kissed I see them mighty for the fray— The Fire of Youth their host pervades!"

"Give way, give way!" But closer sight shows theirs the same— So brave, so merciless, so gay!— As mine own Youth, with its fierce flame.

"Give way, give way!" I see them peers and more than peers; I yield me proudly, while I may, Nor make it cause for bitter tears.

"Give way, give way!" Why, better ones than I, forsooth, Are fallen to a memory gray, Since I o'erstep them with my Youth!

"Give way, give way!" That shining host hath much to learn— But what avails if I should say, "You must, yourselves, give way—in turn!" —Edith M. Thomas in New York Times.

AN INDIVIDUALIST.

Mr. Wilson is right to hate monopolies, but it is a matter of question, from his own statement of the case, whether he really could say in specific cases just when a business is a monopoly and when not. As for co-operation, has there ever been any in the White House who relied less upon this? No, Mr. Wilson is not of the monopolistic mold, for he never shares with others under any form of compact—he is an individualist, and this is very different from being a sincere supporter of co-operation.—Baltimore American.

THE JESTER.

A Mollified. "Did you see that?" yelled the excited man in a Panama hat. "That robber of an umpire calls Gilligan out at third and Rafferty never come within a foot of touching him!" "It looked that way to me, too," admitted the man beside him. "Still, I dare say the umpire could see the play better from where he was than we could from up here."

"Ah, go on home!" retorted the other, savagely. "You ain't got no business goin' to a ball game. You're one of these blamed pacifists, that's what you are!" —New York Times.

Keeps Very Close to It. Two members of the Massachusetts Medical Society met the other day. Said one: "I heard today that your son was an undertaker. I thought you told me he was a physician."

"Not at all." "I don't like to contradict, but I'm positive you did say so." "You misunderstood me. I said he followed the medical profession." —New York Times.

Babies Hadn't a Chance. Shopwalker—Do you realize that you were four hours selling those two women a yard of ribbon? Saleswoman—I know, sir. But just as they got to the counter they discovered that they each had a baby just learning to talk.—New York Times.

Economy. Hokus—Does your wife ever have any spasms of economy? Jokus—Well, she's always talking about how much carfare we could save if we only had an automobile.—New York Times.

Appropriateness. "I went to our cashier's wedding yesterday." "How was the bride dressed?" "So appropriately. She wore a dress of changeable silk." —Baltimore American.

THIRSTY RAILROADS.

The Indian locomotive is always taking water. At every station there is a tank, and while the train is standing at the platform, about the noises and cries of the people, you hear the gush of water, and, if you look forward, you see the hunched engineer busy with a dripping water-pipe. The tanks are usually supplied from a well or nearby river, but in the desert lands rivers are few and wells are not always to be trusted.

At one village where we stopped the tank was empty. Its well had gone dry. The engineer and station-master consulted together. There was another well, the station-master said, a mile farther down the road. It belonged to a farmer, and still had water in it. There was yet steam enough in the engine's boiler to carry the train a mile or so, and soon we had drawn up in a sandy stretch of country where there were only a few yellow patches of grass were to be seen, and where a lean, black Hindu was rhythmically bending and rising above a well, pouring out little bucketfuls of water upon the parched surface of his field. The lean Hindu was the farmer, and for one rupee he agreed to sell enough water to carry the train on to the next station. The engineer came down along the track, calling upon the passengers for help, and soon was formed a line of dark-skinned figures stretching from the engine to the well. The farmer had two shallow pails. These went back and forth along the line, and little by little, drop by drop, the water of the well passed into the tank of the locomotive. When the train resumed its journey we were three hours late.—Harper's Magazine for October.

DEMOCRATIC MADAME IX.

The usual simplicity which has marked all occasions in which President Li Yuan-hung has figured in the life of Peking, characterized the birthday anniversary of Madame Li, just celebrated. The occasion was quietly observed by the family, with only a few friends and intimates present.

Bankers Arrive From Overseas

Oakland to Get Large Share

Freighters for Ocean Traffic to Be Rushed to Completion in Local Yards; Captain on the Way to Take Over-Capto

With eight steel freighters, aggregating 72,400 tons, building or ordered in local shipyards for Norwegian shippers, Oakland will capture a substantial share of the $200,000,000 to be expended by Norwegians for steamships constructed in American yards. Four Norwegian bankers arrived in New York today on the Norwegian liner Bergensfjord to make credit arrangements for the payment of large sums for materials purchased in the United States, of which shippings forms a large item. Seven Norwegian steamship captains were also on board the Bergensfjord. They are in this country to take over a large number of big freight steamers that have been built in American yards for Norwegian concerns.

Captain H. T. Brude of the Stolt-Nielsen Company of Hangesund, Norway, is on his way to Oakland to take charge of two 7100-ton steamers built here for his company. He declares these vessels will probably be put in the Pacific freight trade. He will also go to Seattle, where his company has seven 5000-ton steamers building. The 7100-ton freighter Capto, purchased by the Stolt-Nielsen Company, recently launched at the yards of the Moore & Scott Iron Works, is the first to be completed of eight steamers building for or ordered by Norwegian firms in Oakland. A sister ship of the Capto, also purchased by the Stolt-Nielsen Company, will be launched at the yards of Moore & Scott at the beginning of December. The Capto was built from plans of Ralph & Company and the second steamer from the George W. McNear Company.

NEW CONTRACTS.
Contracts for the construction of three 9400-ton steamers for Norwegian shippers have just been signed up by Robert S. Moore, manager of Moore & Scott. He has been in the East for several weeks arranging the details and the keels of the big ships will be laid soon after his return.

Three steamers, aggregating approximately 30,000 tons, will be built for Norwegian companies at the yards of the Union Iron Works on the Oakland estuary. It is to finance these great shipping orders in Oakland and other shipbuilding centers in the United States that the Norwegian bankers are in this country. Upon their arrival in New York the bankers said they were not here as a commission but as individuals. Other passengers on the Bergensfjord, however, declared they did form a commission. The four Norwegians are: Knut Backke, Emil Sophus Dahl and Gustav Kamstrup Hegge of Christiania and Trygve Barth of Bergen.

TELEVISION PLANS.
Commenting upon the object of their mission, Dahl said:

This is not a financial commission, nor do we represent any bank or banks, though we are directors of the banks. We are rather here individually to better financial arrangements between Norway and the United States. There are immense purchases being made in this country that have to be paid for, and among them is an item of $200,000,000 for ships alone. While here we will look into general conditions with a view to purchasing railway stocks, iron and steel. It is necessary because we are unable to secure them from Germany, our former source of supply.

Of the seven Norwegian captains who have arrived in this country to take charge of new ships, Captain Gabriel Hogard, who was formerly employed in Cramps' shipbuilding yards at Philadelphia, is here to take over four 8800-ton steamers being constructed in Philadelphia, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. He said that the Norwegian people were convinced there would be no slump in shipping after the war for two years at least.

Captain Fred Ole Hanson is on his way to Japan to take over some large steamers built there for Norwegian firms.

NO ARRESTS IN
'GAMBLING' CASE

Chief Thinks California Grays
Are Punished Enough
by Losses.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—No arrests, according to Chief of Police White, will be made in connection with the disclosures that "gambling den" was operated by the California Grays, San Francisco's crack military organization, during a recent bazaar. While the purpose of the "49 camp," with the accompanying fairs and roulette tables, which the Grays obtained permission to run, was to raise funds to pay for their participation in the inaugural procession at Washington, the gambling venture lost the organization $2500 as a result of the manipulations of two strangers. The identity of the two men who succeeded in so frequently beating the game remains a mystery. If the Grays knew they were being beaten, they would not have been so successful. It was announced this morning that the Grays would pay their own way to Washington and that despite their financial losses, which, in addition to that lost in the "49 camp," included $2000 on a recent auto show, they would yet parade in honor of the inauguration of the country's chief executive.

In granting the permit to the Grays to run a camp, Chief White thought it was for their own members, and he did not deem, as several prominent local clubs have been given similar privileges. "I did not dream any outsiders would be allowed in," said the chief this morning. "Certainly I would have advocated a refusal of the permit had I believed the games were to be run in a hall in the Native Sons' building. I thought it was to be in the private quarters of the California Grays and that their own members were to participate. I would not have allowed the opening of any hall or permitted the public to play at games and roulette in San Francisco for money under any circumstances had I known. If the Grays did this, it was without my consent or my knowledge. However, I cannot make no arrests nor will I attempt to prosecute anybody unless I am requested to do so."

OPEN NURSING COURSE.
To care for the sick in home and family, or to fill a position as practical nurse, this is the purpose of the trained attendant course to open this week at the Oakland Young Women's Christian Association. The work is in charge of Dr. Lillian Shields and Mrs. Seelenfried. The first lesson is to be given tomorrow night.

New Double Vision Lenses Highly Commended

No invention in the optical world has created a greater furor than the recent patenting of the "Caltex One-piece" Bifocals. These wonderful double vision lenses are being worn with perfect comfort by people who heretofore thought it impossible to wear bifocals. The old style bifocals were either made by cementing two pieces of glass together or melting two pieces—but with the "Caltex" One-piece Bifocals, reading and distance corrections are ground from one solid piece of flawless optical glass, and when worn have the appearance of regular glasses—no noticeable gliding line between reading and distance portions. "Caltex" are the only perfect double vision glasses made from a single piece of glass. Ground at the California Optical Company, 1221 Broadway, Oakland; 181 Post St. and 2568 Mission St., San Francisco.—Advertisement.

LARGE SUMS ARE GIVEN ARMENIANS

Churches Aid in the Work of Relief; Committees Adding Totals.

Complete reports from Armenian and Syrian relief workers have not been made to the executive committee of the organization, but preliminary showings, according to committee members, the sum realized both Saturday and yesterday will be a decided addition to the figures made out from national collections. Sunday sermons on the subjects of charity and relief brought out ready response from members of congregations and Sunday school children. Large sums are reported to have been collected. Saturday's work, aided materially by club women and charity workers, also produced an excellent amount to be sent to the national headquarters in New York. The women worked from behind tables, situated in stores, banks and downtown buildings.

From New York it is reported that a cargo of foodstuffs and clothing, valued at $700,000, will be shipped to Beirut, Syria, this week. A United States navy collier will be the mode of transportation, thus assuring the national headquarters of relief that the supplies will reach their destination. From early reports today the New York office was able to say that the American public had answered the appeals for relief with generous sums of money. Although it will be a day or so before the amount Oakland subscribed to is announced, committee members feel sure that it will stand comparison with other cities throughout the country of similar size. Members of the executive committee, which had general direction of the collections include: Rev. Albert W. Palmer, chairman; Louis S. Gear, executive secretary; D. Jacoby, treasurer; John Fechter, Rev. Francis J. Van Horn, Rev. William K. Downer, Dr. W. J. McCracken, Rev. Howard Kerr, Mrs. W. F. Kroll, Mrs. C. E. Perkins, Mrs. Albert E. Carter, Miss Annie Florence Brown, Mrs. George E. Perkins and Mrs. W. B. Cole.

Protest Over Japanese Buying
Riverside Home Suddenly

State of California Takes Steps to Enforce Provisions of Alien Land Law; House Bought for Offspring, Is Retaliated

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 23.—Yukiko Harada is a little Japanese who keeps a restaurant in Riverside. He bought a house so his children would have a healthful place to live.

The neighbors protested. In the beginning, it was only a wretched little neighborhood row. It has suddenly expanded into a world-famous law suit.

The State of California, acting on the complaint of the neighbors, is today seeking to confiscate Harada's house. Under a law passed by the California Legislature in 1913, no alien capable of acquiring citizenship can own property in this state.

According to information in the attorney-general's office, the Japanese associations have taken up the defense of Harada's property. The Japanese consular secret service operative, and Mrs. Margaret W. Cornell, secretary to Crowley.

In addition to the accusation of prejudice and bias against the German government and its representatives in this country, the affidavits recite that a grave injustice will be done to the five accused persons by an attempt to combine the charges against them of setting on foot a military expedition against Canada and of violating the neutrality laws by the alleged blowing up of munition plants in this country.

The indictments were formally filed with the court and the motion of the prosecution to consolidate was taken under advisement. The affidavits read in part:

That affiant, Franz Bopp, has been advised and thoroughly believes that great prejudice will be done to him and to his co-defendants in the event that the said actions are consolidated for trial and are tried together for the following reasons:

"I have lived in America now a long time. My heart is American. All my sympathies are American. I think American law will not let me become an American. My wife and I work very hard. I keep a restaurant and also a lodging house. We always lived ourselves in my children. I was not with Mexicans and others; but we tried to keep it nice and clean. Perhaps it was the dust; perhaps it was living all the time in the house without a good place to live. But anyhow, our children were sick much of the time. Finally one of our little boys, aged 6, died there. Then my wife and I decided we must move away someplace where our children could get good air and not be sick."

CHILDREN BORN HERE.
"We tried to get a house, but the agent said they would not rent a house to Japanese. Finally we found this house for sale. I bought it. My children, three of them, Mine, Sumi and Yoshiko, were born in this country. As American citizens they have the right to own property here. I bought it for them. I hold it for their trust."

"We fixed the house up as nicely as possible. Some of the neighbors were very nice. The lady who lives next door to me, she is a very nice woman. My children and are very happy. We do not mean to do harm to anyone, but I think we have the right to place our children in the proper surroundings, where they will be able to grow up properly. They are too young, they go to the public schools and are happy with the American children."

The records show that the prosecution was undertaken by attorney-General Webb on complaint of J. G. Hansler, a neighbor living directly across the street.

HANSLER'S ASSERTIONS.
Hansler made the following statement in regard to the case:

"I don't want to have any trouble with Harada and don't want to hurt him. I want him to live here. If he lives there other Japanese will move in and that will inevitably hurt all the property in the neighborhood. I don't know what he got up on him to ask him to move out. He received us very politely and said he would consider our request."

"I don't know when he saw in the meantime, or by whom he was instructed, but the next time we went to see him he was of a different turn of mind. He said he had decided not to move. We offered him an advance on the price he paid for his house. I understand he paid $1500 for his place. We offered him $2000, but he declined. We reminded him that we were willing to let him have the house under the state law. He replied that even if he lost the house he would not lose any money thereby. The inference, of course, being that either the Japanese government or the Japs of this section have decided to indemnify him."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—Charging that the United States government is endeavoring to bolster up a weak case against the German consular officials of San Francisco by the consolidation of the two indictments against them, five affidavits sworn to by the defendants were filed this morning with Federal Judge Doelling. Each of the sworn statements is identical and is made separately by the accused, including Consul General Franz Bopp, Baron E. H. Von Schlack, vice-consul; Lieutenant George Wilhelm Von Brincken, consular attaché; Charles C. Crowley, consular secret service operative, and Mrs. Margaret W. Cornell, secretary to Crowley.

Fire Department Called Out to Make Rescue

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—When Frank Glad, a 17-year-old messenger boy employed at 151 Post street, plunged down the elevator shaft this morning he was so caught in the machinery that it was necessary to call out the fire department to rescue him. The lad's cries for help could be heard by the employees, but they could not reach him or discover just where he was until the firemen came to their aid. The lad was found in the pit, his clothing caught in the elevator machinery at the side. His left thigh was broken, his scalp lacerated and his shoulder wrenched. Fire Chief Thomas Murphy took him to the Central Emergency hospital.

Faces Court; Still Loves
Girl, He Says.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 23.—Rev. William Allen, in jail here charged with improper relations with Alfred Lillian Joyce, appeared in Police Judge Thomas Doelling's court today and declared that he wished to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge.

Judge Doelling will hear his plea this afternoon and at the same time will permit Allen to make a statement regarding the case. Allen, according to word issued from the county jail today, will plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge and will willingly take a six months' jail sentence. Following his divorce from his third wife, Laura Allen, the suit of which he will press on the charge of desertion, the aged minister says that he will marry Miss Joyce, Miss Joyce is with a sister in this city.

Allen said today in prison: "The girl has been good for me and I for her. She will stick by me through thick and thin. After this trouble is over we will marry."

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 23.—Probable toll of Lake Erie's "Black Friday" storm jumped to forty-eight dead today with the arrival in Toledo of the steamer Matthews with three bodies from the foundered steamer Merida and a report that three other bodies, members of the crew of this ill-fated boat, and one body of a sailor on another ship, had been recovered.

The four bodies were recovered by the freighter Charlotte G. Bretling and taken to Sandwich, Ont. One of the four was found in a badly battered yawl marked "James B. Colgate." The other three were life-belts marked Merida.

The dead, six bodies recovered, thirteen missing and probably dead. Whileback James B. Colgate, twenty-one missing, one saved, one dead. Schooner D. I. Filer, six missing, one saved.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 23.—The steamer Matthews, Captain Cunningham, arrived here this morning with the bodies of three sailors wearing life-belts of the steamer Merida. The Merida was bound for Buffalo.

Captain Cunningham reported the bodies were found fifty miles west of Long Point, Ontario. He said, the freighter Charlotte G. Bretling also has picked up four bodies in the same vicinity, believed to have been from the Merida, taking them to Sandwich, Ont.

The Merida, bound for Buffalo, was under the command of Captain H. S. Jones of Buffalo. Her home port is Chicago.

The report of Captain Alexander McDonald of the Harvey Goulder that he had found the lake "full of wreckage" which he could not identify, caused the fear that other steamers as yet unreported may have foundered with loss of life.

Captain Walter J. Grashaw, Cleveland, said that the body of the crew of the whaleback James B. Colgate's crew of twenty-five. He was picked up from a raft, yesterday off Conneaut and taken to that port.

Comment and Opinion on

S. S. FORNEY'S experiences with the State Railroad Commission have been varied and sometimes disappointing, but recently he secured an order authorizing the issue of 875 shares of prior preferred stock of the Central California Gas Company. Contrasted with other incidents in the commission centered about his applications this was simple until Saturday, when Charles F. Leoge and Dr. J. Molgaard filed an application for rehearing in the matter. They are both stockholders in the corporation and are not satisfied with the order. It is probable that this application will be given a formal hearing.

Forney has had an ill-starred career before the rail board. His conception of public utility regulation and the theory of the commission has at times differed. In a previous hearing on Central California Gas, Forney threatened to defy the order of the commission. It could appear that he determined to resist and earlier in the year was in accord and is now in accord with the rail board.

The Leoge and Molgaard application has been set for November 2 for hearing and the basis of the complaint will then be known.

The Central California Gas operates at Visalia and Porterville and Lindsay, Exeter and contiguous territory. It has issued a $1,000,000 6 per cent sinking fund gold bond, authorized up to $500,000.

Bituminous coal reached $4.25 a ton at the mines in Pittsburgh today, $1.65 a ton higher than the customary price and probably the highest it ever reached. Sales agents of some of the more important companies said there was little available even at this price as the mines generally operated on contracts.

SARDINE CATCH.

Four carloads of canned sardines are being shipped daily from the Booth Packing Company's cannery at Monterey. Ever since last Sunday night the catch has averaged more than 100 tons per day, in the records of the cannery show that never before has the sardine run been so large and so steady for such a long period.

Sunday night experienced the largest catch of the present run, 130 tons being handled. This is the largest amount ever handled by a cannery on Monterey bay, according to the Booth representatives here.

Monterey fishermen receive $10 a ton for the sardines and are averaging between $1000 and $1300 per day for their efforts.

GASOLINE STANDARD.

The United States department of commerce, on the subject of gasoline standards, has issued the following:

In view of the fact that statements have appeared in the press to the effect that the bureau of standards will formulate a test which may be applied by any purchaser to detect at once an inferior product, it becomes necessary to correct any false impression that may have been aroused and to call a brief summary of the situation. In the first place, no such simple test is known in the present state of the science of petroleum technology. In the early days of the petroleum industry, when kerosene, gasoline, kerosene, fuel oils and lubricating oils were derived from one source, viz, Pennsylvania crude petroleum, a simple measurement of the specific gravity,

Fascinating and New Wonder of Music The DUO ART

TO hear in one's own home the music of the pianoforte, played by the greatest pianists of the day, is a privilege that few have ever enjoyed. But this wonderful privilege may now be yours—through the Duo-Art Pianola. This remarkable new instrument, actuated by the Duo-Art music rolls, which are accurate records of the great artists' playing, reproduces the interpretations by these famous musicians so perfectly that it's like hearing them play in person.

And, too, you may play the Duo-Art yourself when you desire. It is the most perfect model of the Pianola—plays any standard, 88-note music roll. No pedaling—it is operated by electricity. It is also a perfect pianoforte of the conventional type, a Steinway, Weber or Stroud.

Duo-Art Pianolas range in price from $775 up. Convenient terms of payment may be arranged and other pianos or player-pianos accepted in part exchange.

SEEK TRACES OF MURDER VICTIMS

Rancher Clings to His Story of Slaying; Missing Clues Puzzle Officers.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—Search for bones or parts of the bodies of Mrs. Irene Barrett and her son Raymond Wright, who were slain by a murderer, continued today by police and county authorities in an effort to prove or disprove the alleged confession of Benton L. Barrett, an aged and well-to-do rancher who was charged with the murder of the two bodies and the larger bones to have been burned to ashes by the fire in which Barrett was alleged to have confessed he destroyed them to conceal the deed, committed Wednesday night.

Several small bones and what apparently were blood stains were found at Barrett's ranch at Santa Monica, near here, according to the district attorney, but he declared it impossible for the flesh of the two bodies and the larger bones to have been burned to ashes by the fire in which Barrett was alleged to have confessed he destroyed them to conceal the deed, committed Wednesday night.

Barrett was taken to the scene of the alleged double crime shortly before midnight last night and in the alternating flashes of electric light and shadows of light he was put through an examination by the authorities that failed to shake his story that he killed the two in "self-defense" or in change his manner of calm self-possession.

In his cell yesterday Barrett promised to make public later a statement to "justify" the alleged killing. He refused to enlarge upon his previous statement, yet, spoke of the folly of a "mature man" who marries a woman of high temper—a woman "who knows the matrimonial game from start to finish."

Trailing Shotgun, Hunter Is Killed

Harold McKay Noble of this city, was shot and instantly killed at Dorris, Cal., yesterday, when a shotgun, which he was trailing through a marsh while on a duck-hunting expedition, was accidentally discharged. The charge of buckshot entered his neck, nearly blowing the head from his body.

The tragedy occurred a few miles from town. Noble, who is an employee of the Dorris Box Factory, with several companions had been creeping through the tules for hours after ducks, when he sighted a large flock. In trying to get closer to the birds, he let the stock of his shotgun drag on the ground behind him. He had proceeded only a few feet, when the trigger of the weapon caught on a stick, discharging the contents into his neck. The body was brought to Dorris by John Wancher, one of his companions.

Noble was 23 years of age and well known in Oakland. He was survived by a father in Durick, a sister in Seattle and a brother in this city.

Charter Proposal Will Be Discussed

The indeterminate franchise question and the proposed traction amendment will be discussed tomorrow night at the Santa Fe Improvement Club headquarters, Fifty-fifth street, near Grove.

Crime Through the Shop

As the winter draws nearer and nearer, and the skies darken earlier at late afternoons, the shops make up for their lack of light by floods of gold and silver cloth, canopies of gold and silver embroidered and glittering ribbons of metallic luster.

Apparently this is the effect of the nation-wide longing for currency last year when everybody was oppressed with the fact that all the money in the world was not allowed to work.

Shiny rate-gathering shoppers, when they are weary of embroidery, deck your frocks with ribbons and then consider other purchases. The thing is, they are advertised in THE TRIBUNE. For ribbon, used as wide piping or to form borders and in many other ways, is in high favor by the arbiters of what is vogue.

An illustration of ribbon decoration of an effective sort was a blouse shown by Kahala's from the Japanese. The blouse, black over a white silk underbodice, this waist was relieved by a wide double fold of white satin ribbon that edged the only line of color of the blouse. The edges as well of a circular double collar that fell in ripples in front and back.

Another interesting feature of this material was the way the blouse caught into a monotone plaid by groups of small tufts that crossed every four inches all over the fabric.

The person prone to wadded cushions was attracted by the grace, but for all that a breakfast set without an upholstered cushion to anyone in its fluffiest defense, it is a failure.

It is the kind of furniture that causes great joy to fill the heart of the sophisticated lover of the best order of old-fashioned and antique things. Of dull black, gold lacquers the edges and lifts it from any suggestion of colorlessness.

It is a kind of furniture that causes great joy to fill the heart of the sophisticated lover of the best order of old-fashioned and antique things. Of dull black, gold lacquers the edges and lifts it from any suggestion of colorlessness.

For the satisfaction of feminine souls demanding bright color, such wraps as are the latest New York styles, are designed. Of an odd velvety woolen material with very wide ribs, this coat felt controlled only by a narrow, loose collar. For contrast the collar—a big, circular pocket, topped, were of black velvet.

Among the smart traps for sport hoods is showing skating caps and scarfs of extraordinary plaids and of very fleecy texture. The caps are little round affairs with the pointed top caught at the sides with little worsted tassels or balls of wool, while the scarfs end in tasseled tassels.

One set of a striking navy blue and green and white plaid had fringe of blue on the sides and a black tassel on the cap, while a similar set that had been fashioned of a garnet and yellow and a still different set had an all yellow scarf with a dandelion of a worsted ornament on one side, while the scarf was both striped and fringed in white.

Knickerbocker attached to an empire camisole composed a new creation of lingerie specially planned for the fall one to wear with her evening frocks, when wearing more than a strap over the shoulder is de trop.

At the waist line it fitted, then branched out above into many fine little tufts extending up a few inches, and boys of narrow blue and white stripes, his chiefest decoration. Two little bows decorated it in front, and at the knees, above and below, where the flesh toned crepe de chine was shirred in.

Such is one of the newest fascinations. Whatever is oriental, or massively old-fashioned in jewelry is in vogue now, and the art jewelry at Capewell reflects this mood of the feminine public. The latest novelties, for instance, are of heavy links and stones, such as one of big circular, gold-colored rings, connecting the fingers. Pendant at the end hung a large cross with rounded corners, of rather Byzantine effect, with a big red central stone and vivid blue ones in the corners.

This was only one of many with the cross motif; other chains were decorated with pendants cleverly imitating camoes set in platinum, using silver instead. Instead of having the large drop at the top, the newest ear-rings fasten on the ear lobe with a tiny bar, and the heavier ornament hangs from there. More of this shop were of flat pearl set in rhinestone, while another type showed a diamond-shaped ear drop of rhinestone barred across with a band of little blue stones.

Cerise picking gave the unusual touch to a little flock of dark blue serge and Eastern Outfitting Company, while black silk tailored build completed the decoration.

This model, combining wool and silk, had a little contee waist with sleeves and a circular back collar of satin. Its skirt was entirely of satin with three graduated cloth folds ending in the deepest one at a hem. The skirt was gathered at the edge to three folds. A white lay-over collar, with white lawn cuffs and a row of small black bow buttons as close as possible to the edge, were completed the detail.

Incessant and much praise will be offered up by womanhood to some man—quite anonymous as yet—who invented a new clasp for handbags. It is a clasp that, after closing like any other, the owner gives a turn to, thereby locking her carcase, her keys, her papers and all that they cannot strew the street when she tries to catch a car.

This clasp, called the "Marmont" clasp, on many of Marmont & Upright's new leather bags of morocco outside and silk interiors.

An interesting development of the popular silk and velvet handbag, was a little semi-circular one with a purse top, and a lower part of striped gray and black velvet appearing from under points of black and white mesh. The bag was very different bag of long narrow strings that drew up at the top, had all of its silk of these bags have draw strings, but the majority of the new ones have a top that is very mirror and little purses.

Speaking of beads, the devotee of chains will have a new thing to look at. At Taff's are extraordinary long necklaces of jet, made principally of the beads, strung together in long, thin, larger beads of various forms and sizes. Also they are of a price that will never permit them to achieve commonness.

One word affair consisted of small beads, grouped only to be interrupted at intervals by huge oval beads formed by cleverly strung jet beads, with a bar of silver or gold rings with barbed wire, set in jet in queer forms and at the center draw a deep line of tiny gold beads. This type of bizarre necklace is very novel. More conventional was one evolved of narrow black more ribbons ending in long tassels of silver and silk, and of antique finish. Bits of silver and jet adorned the ribbon at intervals.

'ALL CAPITALS' CAR WILL ARRIVE

Will Visit Oakland on Country-wide Tour; Reception Planned.

The "all capitals-all states" car, a little five-passenger Hupmobile, which is carrying good roads messages from the governors of the states to each other, will arrive in the bay section shortly. It is due in Sacramento tomorrow and is expected to arrive in Oakland the next day or Friday.

Joseph E. Caine, managing director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, will check the car in at state coach of the Lincoln highway, and the Hupmobile will then cross the bay.

The Good Roads and Lincoln Highway Committees of the Oakland Chamber plan to celebrate the arrival of the car, possibly with a luncheon.

The Hupmobile left Washington, D. C., on August 28 to visit the capital of every state and deliver a good roads message to the governors of the states already traveled. The party consists of two drivers, an observer of the American Automobile Association, and a moving picture camera man.

Advance reports on the car's progress say that the worst roads were found in Kentucky, Iowa and Montana. In the last state snow and mud permitted only forty-two miles to be made in two days.

The car already has visited the capitals of the states along the northern boundary of the United States. From California it will go to Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida and through the Atlantic seaboard states back to Washington.

ACHES AND PAINS

Don't neglect a pain anywhere, but find out what causes it and conquer the cause. A pain in the kidney region may put you on your back tomorrow. Don't blame the weather for your aches. It may be an advanced warning of Bright's disease. A pain in the stomach may be the first symptom of indigestion. A creek in a joint may be the forerunner of rheumatism. Chronic headaches more than likely warn you of serious stomach trouble. The best way is to keep in good condition day in and day out by regularly taking GOLD MEDAL LAXATIVE OIL Capsules. Sold by reliable druggists. Money refunded if they do not help you. Beware of substitutes. The only pure imported Hartman Oil Capsules are the GOLD MEDAL. Guaranteed and sold by The Owl Drug Co.—Advertisement.
